Update Ancestris

This action checks if the version of Ancestris that is already installed on your computer is up to date, and if not, it will install the updates.

If your application is up to date, the above window will appear, indicating that your application is up to date.

If not, the list of "extensions" that have been modified will appear and you will be able to proceed with their installation.

You will then be in the Updates tab of the Extensions manager that we invite you to refer to for more details.
